These great wines are produced by Cantine Riunite, one of the largest wine companies in Italy and the largest exporter of Italian wine. More than 1,800 small growers (with an average vineyard size of only five acres) meticulously nurture the grapes to ensure world-class quality.

The Emilian semi-sparkling winemaking tradition is based on natural re-fermentation in the bottle. With this method the wines obtained are long-lived; being produced from a good base within the bottle. The result is the development of wines that maintain their exclusive characteristics.
